

If you can master reading, then you are mastering the only true human magic in the world. Once you are skilled in this, then you will wield the greatest power in the world.

You can see the world through someone else's eyes and walk in their shoes. You can travel forwards and backwards in time without leaving your seat, and cross the globe in seconds.

But most powerfully of all, the more you read, the more you learn about other people, the more you begin to ask questions of yourself, and understand who you truly are - and once you have done that, then - I promise you - you can do anything.

A handwritten signature of Piers Torday in black ink, written in a cursive style.

Piers Torday