

Every summer I go to stay at my Grandad's house by the sea. There are lots of fun things to do, like feeding Grandad's chickens or going to the beach in his camper van.

While Mum and Dad unpack, Gilbert and I go adventuring.

Gilbert loves adventures. Especially if they involve chickens or walkies.

Together, we build a pirate fort in Grandad's attic room and search for hidden treasure.

What's this? It will make the perfect sail for our ship!

"Milly, dinner's ready!" calls Grandad. "Aha, I see you've found my old Pride flag."

“What’s Pride?” I ask.

“Pride is like a giant party where we celebrate the wonderful diversity of our communities, and share the message that everyone should be treated with equality and respect – no matter who they love or what gender they are.”
